- Although I teach in the primary school of the university, I enjoyed taking part in the workshop.
- It was great and informative, but doesn't really apply to me. I don't teach students, but colleagues. Also, it was very specific to online teaching, which might not be as common here in Europe as in America. But there were lots of good, creative ideas if someone wants to become more digital. However, the Neptun system here is pretty poor.
- Useful info, however, I teach in a primary school, so there is a bit difference.
