- * Use the language the administration are using! [+1 thinking] progress not perfection. Thank you!
- +1 thinking is my take-away. Thank you!
- Aim for progress and not perfection. Start/involve IT/media. I was hoping for a little more K-12 admin talk, but still feel that it can apply.
- Appeal to the concerns of those you are addressing. I need more organization/visuals, so it was challenging for me to follow. I do appreciate your work! Thanks.
- Appropriate, research based and experiences.
- Fantastic! Thank you for providing practical strategies for building consensus among district & school leaders. Thomas is a very clear, effective presenter.

- Interactive, engaging. Love all things Tobin. 😊
- Like +1 thinking. Like looking at UDL @ different levels. Thank you for addressing higher ed + K-12. Great conversation.
- My wonderings . . . Take-away – aim for progress not perfection. One buy-in barrier we receive is “show me the data & how to measure UDL implementation.” We have the data—it’s convincing them of one of two things, either 1) how do we know the data was influenced by UDL, or 2) how can we be sure the data will be influenced by UDL? Looking forward to getting more ideas from you next year! Thank you.
- Short bulleted point sum-it-all-up visual can (could) be helpful for/as takeaway.
